

LYNN HARKER

Having spent over thirty years in the interior design business, Lynn Harker has witnessed the struggles of the interior design business from within and now from the outside as a manufacturer to the trade. After a period of running a retail operation in the 70's, Lynn joined his wife's design business in 1985. In 1996 he started Woodland Furniture. This experience has left him with a strong desire to share his experiences of what it takes to run a successful interior design business with design professionals. Come and hear what Lynn will share and see how you can improve your design business!

BARRY DIXON

Believing that the core of good design lies in what's appropriate for the context, Barry Dixon has become one of the nation's most sought-after designers. Formed in 1993, Barry Dixon Inc. specializes in high-end residential and commercial interiors from coast to coast. Dixon has built an impressive resume that includes private residences and commercial projects nationwide, as well as accolades from regional and national organizations and media. His work is featured frequently in numerous publications, including Traditional Home, Southern Accents and House Beautiful. Barry launched a new furniture line with Tomlinson/Erwin-Lambeth in 2005 and will soon be launching his own fabric line and rug collection. "Barry Dixon Interiors", written by well-known author Brian Coleman with photography by Edward Addeo, is scheduled to be published in 2008.
